Water and Wastewater Safety in Healthcare

Water and Wastewater Safety in Healthcare

This educational course is designed for those involved in water safety in the built environment. Since its highly successful launch in 2024, the course consistently attracts a diverse audience of healthcare professionals, including:

- Clinical microbiologists
- Infection specialists
- Engineering, construction, design and project teams
- Procurement and executive teams

The course comprises modules in on demand, self-led learning and a programme of live online interactive workshops and clinics with expert presenters.

Why Sponsor?

- Showcase your products and solutions for improving water safety in the built environment among healthcare professionals in infection control, microbiology, construction, estates and procurement.
- Increase familiarity with your brand through the course promotional campaign across HIS communication channels and marketing opportunities during live and on-demand course sessions.
- Demonstrate your organisation's commitment to improving patient safety and reducing the risk of transmitting HCAs.
- Secure your position as an industry leader, showing your organisation is supporting education and professional development among healthcare professionals.
